AQI's New Source for Suicide Bombers: Iraq

- ~~(S//REL)~~ Iraqis May Now Constitute the Majority of AQI Suicide Operatives
 - Border Security Environment Limiting Transit of Foreign Fighters
 - Khansa Brigade and Children of Paradise Exploiting Iraqis
- ~~(S//REL)~~ Benefits to AQI
 - Bombers are Familiar with Surroundings
 - Little Compensation Necessary

Suicide Vests

~~(S//REL)~~ Assessment: AQI continues to adjust due to the changing security environment. AQI's reliance on Iraqis will increase as Iraqi Security Forces and Coalition Forces efforts curtail the flow of foreign fighters along the Syrian border.

Pan-Arab Media Highlights

PM Maliki will continue to confront AQI and militias

PM Maliki says Iraq will continue to pursue AQI and outlaw militias to restore the rule of law. His statements come after successful operations in Basrah and Mosul, and as Maysan operations begin phase three – clearing government buildings and offices. (al-Arabiya, al-Iraqiya, al-Hayat, al-Sharqiya, al-Baghdadiya, Beladi TV, Aswat al-Iraq)

National Dialogue Front threatens Iranian boycott

The Iraqi National Dialogue Front threatened to launch a public campaign to boycott Iranian goods in response to Iran's support of militias and the stationing of Quds Force operatives at the Iranian embassy in Baghdad. (al-Sharqiya)

Accord Front rules out approval of SOFA

Iraqi Accord Front spokesman Salim al-Juburi says the Sunni bloc ruled out approving any security agreement, if it infringes on Iraqi sovereignty. Issues of contention for the IAF include, military basing rights and security contractors' immunity from Iraqi law. (Aswat al-Iraq)

Western Media Highlights

Two reports say violence in Iraq is down

Reports released by the Government Accountability Office and the Pentagon on Monday say violence is down in Iraq, but draw different conclusions about progress and future U.S. strategy in Iraq. (NY Times, Washington Post, Wall Street Journal, LA Times, AP, Reuters, AFP, CNN)

Iraqis to resume security control of Anbar Saturday

Iraqis are expected to retake security responsibilities in Anbar Saturday, said the provincial governor. Maj. Gen. Kelly, commanding general, MNF-W, said the change will show Iraqi forces are increasingly ready to defend against threats like al-Qaeda. (Reuters, LA Times, The Australian)

Merchants anticipate thriving future at local market

Shopkeepers at the Doura market in Baghdad say business is increasing due to improved relationships between local residents and Iraqi Security and Coalition forces. U.S. Soldiers in the area work with the Sons of Iraq to guard the market and nearby businesses. (NPR)

Media Engagement Results

PM Maliki on the full scope of Maysan operations:

“The Basha’er as-Salam operation is not only a security operation, but also envisions reconstruction operations and providing job opportunities through joining police and army forces, as well as other official departments.” (Aswat al-Iraq)

Acting DASD Christopher Straub on the GAO report:

“The New Way Forward strategy remains valid. We recognize, as with all strategies, updates and refinements occur at various intervals to take into account changes in the strategic environment.” (NY Times)

(b)(3), (b)(6)

4th Inf. Div., on the Sadr City bombing:

“This was the fourth meeting of this district council, led by hard-working Iraqis determined to make a difference and set Sadr City off on the right path. Special Groups are afraid of progress and afraid of empowering the people.” (CNN)

An unnamed Iraqi professor on the climate at his school:

“There is an overwhelming majority of liberals now in the university, but they are silent. They are armed with ideas, but their opponents are armed with different weapons.” (Newsweek)
